

1

Extra info

A

Informing the public

Some people argue that the resistance to GMO's is caused by unfounded societal fear of its consequences or by distrust of some specific organizations in the field. If only the public would be better informed on the minimal risks and enormous benefits of GMO technology, then their concerns should quickly disappear.